Estonia (Janna, Estonia)

I am small but don't call me cute. I take that personally. People often mix me up with my neighbours but my language refuses to join most of Europe. I decided to be related to Finnish instead. Yes, this makes spelling very long and conversation very quiet. I have a lot of forests. So many in fact that if you get lost we assume that you're just having a walk. I also have borgs

Beautiful places where shoes go to think about their life choices. I enjoy extremes. I like my sauna very hot and my sea very cold. In summer the sun forgets to go to bed. In winter the sun barely shows up. Like a guest who said, maybe. I am shy but also surprisingly modern. I vote online, sign papers with a card and start companies faster than I start conversations.

Small talk is not my favourite sport. I love singing, especially together. I once sang myself free and I still believe that a good song can solve many problems. At the very least, it makes us feel better while standing in the rain. I don't talk much, I don't rush, I don't complain loudly. But if I say yes, I mean it. And if I say maybe, it might take a few years. So, who am I?

As a little hint, I am a country.
